COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Once more we in the United States have the privilege of going to the polls to choose our candidates for public office. It is true this is the primary election, and our choice at this time is to choose the people who will have to meet the opposing party this fall for final election. I wonder if we realize the very real value that we as free citizens have in living in the United States and the State of Maine? One of the ways to show our good citizenship is casting our vote for the candidates of our choice.

I would like at this time to express a very sincere "Thank You" to Jack Compass for filling in as Night Officer the last few weeks. I feel that Clifford Hillier as the new man on duty will give a very good account of himself.

Thank you,
O. T. Rozelle

JOAN STEARNS KILBORN

Joan Stearns Kilborn, former resident of Bethel and sister of the late Mrs. Ellery C. Park, died June 8 at The Lafayette Hotel in Portland, her home for the past 15 years. She was the daughter of the late Sylvanus Porter and the late Isabelle (Partridge) Stearns. Born February 26, 1879 in Paris, she was cleared from the wilderness by a paternal grandfather, she was the youngest of eight children, none of whom survive. It was here on Stearns Hill that her childhood was spent, with parents and grandparents, two generations of sturdy individualists, proud of their self-sufficiency and asking favors of none. Thus with the spirit of pioneer Americanism both inborn and inbred, an independence of thought, action and judgment was inevitable. Inherent too, was her love of adventure, her absorbing interest in what lay "over the hill." This heritage from her soot-faring forebears who sailed the clipper ships, set the pattern for her life. Like them, she would sail the seven seas and seek adventure beyond the horizon.

In 1932 Joan Stearns came to Bethel where she entered Gould Academy at the age of thirteen. An honor student from the first, her paramount interests were music and literature. Living as she did with her sister and brother-in-law, in a home where books were the vital part of living and literary discussion was a daily routine, her youthful enthusiasm for the classics was stimulated and broadened. This literary interest, both creative and appreciative, was to become an increasing source of satisfaction throughout the years. She was graduated, salutatorian of her class in 1936.

After attending Shaw's Business College, Portland, she spent several years in Boston. Here she engaged in secretarial work, continued her study of music and became church soloist in both Boston and Dedham. She was a life-long member of The Universalist Church, an active member of Daughters of the American Revolution and Order of Eastern Star. In 1904 she married Elen Shaw Kilborn, retired lumberman, and for many years they maintained a summer home at Sango Lake. Their winter were spent in world travel. Thus dream became reality. Joan Kilborn roamed far and wide for 20 years. Widowed in 1940 she made her home for several years in Boston, and later in Portland. Her travel became more extensive, more varied. By boat, by motor, by plane she roamed from the Andes to the Himalayas, from the equator to the Arctic, ever following the tradition of her sea-faring forebears—the three Captain Porters, who sailed their Clipper Ships from Portland's Landing to the four corners of the world.

In 1950 her travel memoirs were published, "Over the Horizon. Vignettes of a Voyager" was favorably received. "Stimulating" wrote the critics. But to those who knew her best, the book bore an indelible imprint of her personality, an insatiable curiosity, an utter lack of complacency, a contempt for danger and death. Always to her, life was an adventure, even in its more sombre moments. And this philosophy was hers to the end. The agonizing affliction which she bore with superb courage was to her a challenge. It was life's final adventure. And then "over the horizon" to realms unknown. Go, brave spirit!

"Go, wing thy flight from star to star, From world to luminous world, as far As the universe spreads its flaming wall."

Edward G. Bean, T.M., is now aboard the destroyer USS Cassin Young DD778, out of Newport, R. I. He and Mrs. Bean now have their trailer at Portsmouth, R. I. He returned May 28 from the Mediterranean and Red Sea.

Steve Stanton, field representative for Remington Arms, will be the guest of the Mount Abram Fish and Game Association at their regular meeting to be held at Locke Mills, June 21. Pot luck supper at 6:30. Mr. Stanton will speak on What's New in Guns and Ammunition. He also plans to show a movie and have a display of firearms.

GOULD GRADUATES 61 ALUMNI BANQUET

Returning alumni from all classes filled William Bingham Gym for the Alumni Banquet on Saturday afternoon. Theodore Spear, Public Relations Director for the Oxford Paper Company, spoke on the subject, "Paper and Wood." He traced the development of the paper industry from the early beginnings when rags were used in its production and the experiments that were conducted on the worthiness of other materials such as straw, seaweed, grass, and cornstalks before wood was finally adopted as the raw material for the production of paper. With the advent of wood, the economies of the entire industry were changed. He stated that full advantage must be taken in our productive forest efforts to make the very best results so as to make care of an expanding economy largely due to a population increase. Our productive forest of the country are now showing excellent results so that a balance between growth and consumption has now been reached. Maine is one of the 23 states taking part in the tree farm movement, nurturing its forest which brings the state eight million dollars in cash yearly and provides employment for about 25,000 people. Maine paper companies have spent over $130,000,000 in the last few years to meet competition. Turning to his own organization, Mr. Spear described the program of modernization which the Oxford Paper Company has undergone since World War II. He said that very careful planning has been and continues to be an important factor with Oxford Paper which has a payroll of $11,000,000 for its 2,500 employees.

President Richard Bryant of the Alumni Association presided and presented Headmaster Edward F. Ireland for comments. Dr. Sidney W. Davidson, President of the Board of Trustees, congratulated the Alumni Association for its role in Academy activities. He announced a gift of $25,000 to Gould which has been earmarked as a part of the endowment fund for the benefit of the Academy. Dr. Davidson stated that the Trustees of Gould stand ready at all times to help the Alumni Association.

Headmaster Mrs. Elen Kilborn whose husband was for so many years a trustee of Gould. In closing Dr. Davidson made a public announcement of scholarships which have been set up in 16 educational institutions for Gould students by the Trustees of Mr. Bingham's estate. Preference for these scholarships will be given to Gould graduates from Bethel Oxford County and the State of Maine in that order.

Group singing was led by Headmaster Ireland with Mrs. Doris Lord, Gould '20, at the piano. President Richard Bryant welcomed the new class to the Alumni ranks and the response was given by Miss Valerie Ketch of the Class of 1955. Two other members of the graduating class, David Willard and Harriet Stevens, gave the invocation and benediction respectively.

FLAG POLE DEDICATION

Following the Alumni Banquet, a large group congregated on Alumni Field for the Dedication of a memorial flag pole to William Bingham II by the class of 1955. The presentation of the pole and flag was made by Curtney Mead, President of the Class of 1955, to Dr. Sidney W. Davidson, President of the Board of Trustees, who accepted for the Academy. A large number of the Class of 1955 came from long distances to participate as a group in these exercises. While the flag was raised by some members of the class, the Gould Band played "To the Colors" and the national anthem. Headmaster Ireland presided as master of ceremonies. There followed the annual Alumni versus Gould varsity baseball game which the grads won by a score of 5-2, and the tea at the Headmaster's home for trustees, faculty, parents, graduates, and guests.

School Notes—The Union School closed Monday. The children enjoyed a forenoon of sports in the form of games and contests. The afternoon was taken up with the showing of "The Girl of the Limb." Several visitors came in for the afternoon to enjoy the picture with the children. In the primary room there were two pupils who haven't missed a day of school. It is a great credit to these two as they have to walk quite a ways to reach the bus. They are Loretta and David Kenyon. Alice Cash and Rebecca Andrews received 100% in spelling throughout the whole year. Bruce Thurlow and Pamela Hagar lost out only by one reason. They all should be congratulated on their good work. A picture "Landscape" from the Saving Department was shown this last week to encourage the children to save the right way. By presenting a book with a stamp in it each child receives a certificate with the picture of Loretta saying they have joined the Little Club. After which they take their book home and receive regular savings each week. George Roberts and family who have been going to the Andrews' home started for Pennsylvania, Pa., on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thurlow and family moved into the new house vacated by the Roberts family. Sunday, Mrs. Esther Peterson is visiting Mrs. Nathan Andrews for a few days. Suzanne Andrews' school has finished and she has returned home for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lamb have started their camp on North Pond. James Andrews came home over the week end and is working in Newport.

Mrs. Florence Peterson is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Winn Clark for a few days.

Mrs. Vera Clark and Mrs. Florence Peterson were on Mrs. Ellis Davis' Sunday afternoon.

Lillian L. Brown, Coroner.

Following is a clipping taken from the Boston Post which may be of interest to the many relatives and friends of Mrs. Chadbourne. The Bridgton News called it a clipping of the distinguished New York Times Magazine under the heading "Chronicle of Meeting Fame—being a compilation of some of the unusual achievements of some of the unusual people who died in the year just past." Only 48 names are worthy of inclusion, and the Bridgton News should be doubly proud for among the 48 in a nation of more than 100,000,000 persons appears Julia M. Chadbourne, 100, Bridgton, Maine.... She was America's oldest newspaper correspondent. Mrs. Chadbourne was well known in this vicinity as she and her sister, Mrs. Lilla Marr, have spent several summers with their niece, Lillian Brown, and winters with another niece, Mrs. June Penfold at South Paris.

Donald Brown, Freddie Sayward, attended graduation exercises at University of Maine.

Miss Suzanne Stowell, student nurse at Massachusetts General Hospital, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. George Stowell, Jr.

Oxford County Soil Conservation District Supervisors to seek funds to broaden and enlarge the conservation program within the County. The District Supervisors met Thursday evening for their regular monthly business meeting. The District's program of Reforestation and the proposed program of a selective logging operation are urgently in need of funds to permit greater service to landowners in the County. Although the District's program will be self-sustaining once they are in full operation the present expansion plans will require the raising of approximately $2300.00 two thousand dollars.

Urgently needed equipment includes a pickup truck to transport the tree planting machines, a small crawler tractor and logging skoot for the woodland improvement work. Plans call for a two-man crew to assist District cooperators in managing their woodlands on a selective and sustaining basis.

Philip G. Andrews, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Oxford County Soil Conservation District feels that such a program would be of considerable service to landowners in the District.

Meetings are planned with Town and County officials to see what amount of funds could be obtained from these sources to initiate the District programs.
